

Miss Emma Bond, who was outrageously assaulted in a school house in Christian county, is now at Palmyra in this state, where she will remain for some time for medical treatment. The fund raised for her in all parts of the country amounts to several thousands of dollars.

When Wendell Phillips died he was worth from $200,000 to $250,000, and all of it went unconditionally to his wife. When she dies the entire property goes to his nephew, S. P. Blagden, of New York, to be held in trust for the wife of G. W. Smalley, of London, the correspondent of the New York Tribune.

A lumberman in northern Michigan, named Colonel Hunt, became a millionaire. During the latter part of his life, he took great interest in literature, and owned an extensive library of that class. He died a short time ago, and in his will bequeathed $5,000 to the mother of Artemus Ward, and $5,000 each to Eli Perkins and Josh Billings.

The shipyards are not all dead in this country, the howling of the democracy to the contrary notwithstanding. The Philadelphia Ledger says that all is bustle and activity at the four upper shipyards in that city, and nearly 2,700 hands are employed. Among the vessels being built are four iron steamships, an iron sailing ship, a three-masted iron schooner, an iron steam collier, an iron steam tug, 169 feet long sixty feet wide and six feet deep, to be covered in and adapted for a refrigerator to carry dressed beef to resales in New York harbor.

The Gazette suggests that it would be a wise thing to call a meeting of the republican state central committee, and to invite to that meeting a number of representative republicans of the state. Such a meeting had a splendid effect in Chicago, and it could not have a different effect in this state. This would give a much better idea regarding the political feeling in different parts of the state than could be obtained in any other way. Consultation in this manner concerning the action and the good of the party could not fail to bring forth profitable fruit. The state committee should take this matter into sober consideration, and consult with the committee and other prominent members of the party in regard to it. The Gazette believes that such a consultation would bring about a general meeting.

The strongest endorsement General Logan has yet received for the presidency comes from a democrat—General Daniel E. Sickles. The general is bold enough to speak his mind, and does it in this fashion: "My sympathies are with the democratic party, but of all the names mentioned as republican candidates, should the convention at Chicago nominate General Logan, I shall feel compelled to support him, and for this reason: Logan perhaps to a greater degree than any other person in civil life embodies the successful soldier and public man. He is also the choice of the most conspicuous volunteers, commanders, and is also endorsed by the great captains of the regular army, such as Grant, Sherman and Sheridan. I believe if the republican nominate him he will carry the soldier vote to a man, irrespective of party lines." There is no doubt that General Logan would poll more democratic solid votes than any other man who could be nominated.

It is the judgment of a few prominent republicans that the tariff question will not be an issue in the coming campaign. This judgment is based on the supposition that there is no danger that the democratic party will pass any bills to reduce the tariff rates, for the reason that the leaders in congress are divided on the tariff question, and not being able to agree they will not succeed in passing any measure that will materially affect the tariff. While this may be true, as regards the democratic party in congress, the fact nevertheless remains that the democratic press in the east and in the western howling for a tariff reform which simply means free trade. Whether congress shall do anything or not the question will naturally arise during the national campaign. The republican party must maintain that its position regarding the tariff is best for the interest of the industries of this country. The only way to protect the American system of fostering home industries is to keep that system unimpaired in the midst of the people. With a strong public sentiment against free trade the democratic party does not pass any bill cutting down the rates on the articles produced in this country which demand the most protection. By carrying this war against free trade and an untimely meddling with the tariff, the democrats will be unable to pass even the horizontal bill of Mr. Morrison's. The tariff issue should not drop out of sight in the campaign. It is a living question and demands the attention of the republican party. Let the republican leaders do as they think best about the bloody shirt, and wave it all they please, but the time has not come when that system which guards the American mechanic and the American manufacturer against the encroachment of foreign productions, should be kicked to the rear.

A NIGHT OF IT.

The House Kept Up by Filibustering Until After Midnight.

A Woman's Spicy Testimony in the Danville Riot Investigation—The News Copyright Bill—Capital Items.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The house got into a tangle about 6 o'clock p. m., over a proposition from the Democratic side to fix a day for the consideration of a bill granting an increase of pensions to Mexican war veterans, and restoring to the pension rolls with the same privilege of ex-Confederates who served in the Mexican war. The Republicans began to filibuster under the leadership of Reed, of Maine, and by refusing to vote for the bill without a quorum. The sergeant-at-arms and his deputies were sent to the hotels, residences, theatres, and other places in search of the missing congressmen. In the meantime there were the usual scenes of fun and abandon that characterize sessions of this kind. The exasperated members brought in as prisoners and the punishments proposed kept the house in a fever of excitement. Reed, of Maine, and his associates proposed that the house should adjourn until after midnight, and then resume its session. This was opposed by the Republicans, who wanted to pass the bill before midnight. The house adjourned at midnight, and the Republicans still not voting, and there was a prospect of an all-night session.

Proceedings in Congress. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—In the senate, the chair offered a joint resolution of the Ohio legislature on the exclusion of American-born citizens from the franchise. Resolutions by the Minnesota board of trade, St. Paul chamber of commerce, opposing the forfeiture of the Northern Pacific land grant, were presented. A favorable report was made on the bill to erect a public building at Winona, and on an adverse report on the bill to amend the act for the removal of the Northern Pacific lands in the arid region of the United States. Bills were introduced to admit Dakota as a state and to provide for improving rivers and harbors by contract. Bills were passed to fix the terms of federal courts in Texas, to authorize the sale of timber on the Monocacy reservation in Wisconsin, and to provide for the removal of the Southern Utah to Utah.

In the house of representatives, bills were introduced to grant 250 acres of public land to each survivor of the Mountain meadow massacre; to make freight laws unlawful on roads aided by government bonds; to appropriate $15,000 for additional signal stations, and to amend the sinking fund act. A resolution was offered directing the secretary of state to furnish information as to the action of congress on the resolutions in regard to the death of General Lusk. The house refused to fix a day for the consideration of the copyright bill, but agreed to take action on the trade-mark question March 11. Bills were passed to relieve certain soldiers from the charge of desertion and to make the rate of postage on second-class matter 1 cent for three ounces, except to publishers. The bill to restore to the Mexican pension rolls the names of Confederate soldiers who died for the loyalty soon left the house without a quorum.

At 2:30 a. m. the house was still in session.

The Danville Investigation. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—David Llewellyn, colored, John F. Carl, (white), and Mrs. Sophia Powell, colored, were examined, but their testimony was more or less contradictory.

Mrs. Violet Keating, colored, saw Mr. Blount shoot several times; to wit: on the morning of November 3, which was unusual. The husband of witness did not see her husband shoot, but she was of more importance than the "hot-box."

Cross-examined—Mr. Keating would not vote any more unless it was safe. Witness knew no colored Democrats, and would not associate with either here or there.

Head vote the Democratic ticket who would "take up her clothes and go back to her father." (She had none; if not, she would work for 30 cents a day, and support herself. Witness thought any colored man who voted Democratic forfeited his rights to the privilege he had. She did not think that a Republican could be induced to vote the Democratic ticket; but in her opinion a man who was half Democrat and half Republican would do anything.)

J. G. Miller (white) saw no colored men with weapons, but heard that some of them were armed. Thought the white people were in danger and were compelled to protect themselves.

A. G. Waters (white), an old resident of Danville, and grandfather of the young man Holland who was shot, denied having told the negroes on the day of the riot that it was hot, but would be made hotter the next day.

Later the Danville negro whom Noel (white) attacked on the day of the riot, by which fight the trouble was brought on, swore he made no insulting remark to Noel previous to the fight. Noel testified that Waters was not previous to the trouble and stopping said: "By G—, here I am."

Adjourned.

Mr. Rice of Massachusetts, who is the sub-committee man having the bill in charge, stated to a reporter that he had studied the bill and its bearings, and was not inclined to act favorably upon it, on the ground that it would work against the country press, and in the interest of the metropolitan press. "I am a friend to the country newspapers," said he, "and believe the bill should be defeated. When I learn more of the bill and hear arguments for it I may change my mind, however."

A special dispatch has been sent to The New York Evening Post, which says: "The country members notwithstanding the explanation of Henry Waterson as to the copying of news for twenty-four hours, manifest opposition to the plan."

Gen Sherman's Gratitude. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—President Arthur has received from Gen. Sherman a letter gratefully acknowledging the justice commission's report upon his military career, in which the general says: "I feel sure that when the orders are read out to regiments and divisions of the United States, many a young hero will tighten his belt and resolve anew to be brave and true to the stars and stripes which we of our day have carried safely through one epoch of danger, but which may yet be subjected to other trials which will demand similar sacrifices, equal fidelity and courage, and a larger measure of intelligence."

An Appeal from Headquarters. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Speaker Carlisle has received a letter from Governor Moody, urging the restoration of the old duty on wool. It shows the governor to be a protectionist in the sense that the platform of the Ohio Democracy favors protection.

Land from Railways. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The committee on Pacific railroads has received a favorable report from the sub-committee in charge of the bill compelling land grant railroads to pay the cost of surveying and to take out patents for their lands.

Ordered to the Arctic. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Secretary Chandler has ordered Commander Winfield Scott Shelby to command the Greely relief expedition. Commander Shelby has been in the service since 1856, and is an experienced and capable officer.

No Insurance Claims Allowed. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The court of claims has rendered a decision in favor of the so-called insurance claims arising under the General Award.

Knocked Him Out. CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—Over 3,000 people were present at the city armory to witness the glove fight between Marvin Thompson (Cleveland) and John Welch, of Erie. Thompson weighed 212 pounds and Welch 235 pounds. At 9:30 p. m. time was called in the twenty-fourth round. Eleven rounds were fought, and at the end of the sixth round Welch was almost knocked senseless, but still came up to time. In the eleventh and final round Thompson sent him sprawling over the ropes, clear to the crowd. It is estimated that from $15,000 to $20,000 changed hands. Thompson will get 60 and Welch 40 per cent of the door money. Welch was badly punished, while Thompson seemed almost the worse for it. Thompson challenged Sullivan two weeks ago, but as yet has received no reply, and it is said that friends of this new champion feel confident that if the two giants should come to blows the Bostonian would come out second best.

The Blizzard is Loose. St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18.—The weather reports received at the several railroad offices up to 8 o'clock p. m. showed cloudy and very mild weather in all directions, with a little wind, on the Missouri division of the Northern Pacific.

Severe Storm Coming from the North. St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18.—The weather reports received at the several railroad offices up to 8 o'clock p. m. showed cloudy and very mild weather in all directions, with a little wind, on the Missouri division of the Northern Pacific.

The Cincinnati Southern. CINCINNATI, Feb. 18.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Cincinnati Southern and Ohio Valley railroad, otherwise the Cincinnati, Southern and Ohio Valley, for the election of a board of directors for the ensuing year was held at the Albany building. There were 15,549 votes cast, and the ballots were nearly unanimous. The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: John Scott, J. T. Galt, Briggs Swift, Augustus Westall (in place of Edgar Johnson), George W. New York, W. A. Goodman and Alexander McDonald. The action of the stockholders in electing Mr. Augustus Westall in the place of Mr. Edgar Johnson, leaves the control of the railroad still in the hands of Cincinnatians.

Batal and Torrible Explosion. London, Ont., Feb. 18.—A terrible explosion of twenty pounds of gunpowder took place at Hobbs, Ontario, & Hobbs' establishment. The front of the building was blown out, and the building was soon a mass of flames. Donald Smith, Perry Incis and Frank Shaw, clerks in the establishment, are supposed to have been smoking, and die from their cigars caused the explosion. Smith was instantly killed, and Incis had both legs burnt off just above the ankles. Shaw was terribly burned, and both he and Incis will die. The men from the explosion was heard all over the city.

Thrown Out of Work. PAVTOWNE, R. I., Feb. 18.—Half of the machinery in the large braid mill of D. Goff & Sons has been shut off. A large number of employees are thus thrown out of work. The reason given by the firm is over production.

Fire Losses. OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 18.—The main building of the Omaha Store company's works was burned. Loss, $35,000; fully insured.

A Grand Discovery. Mr. Wm. Thomas, of Newton, Iowa, says: "My wife has been seriously affected with a cough for twenty-five years, and this spring more severely than ever before. She had used many remedies without relief, and being stricken by Dr. King's New Discovery, did so, with most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved her very much, and the second bottle has absolutely cured her. She has not had so good health for thirty years."

THE LASKER AFFAIR.

Bismarck's Action on the Lasker Resolutions Officially Confirmed.

What is Known About It in Washington—Tom Chittre's Views—Some Chicago Germans' Opinions.

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—It has been officially confirmed that the Lasker resolutions have been returned. The government has no intention of rescinding the pork prohibition. It is stated that Bismarck's reason for returning the resolution of conscience of the American congress upon the death of Lasker will shortly be published. The claim is made that a high political principle formed the basis of his action.

Don't Believe They Have Been Rescinded. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Although there is considerable talk here among members of congress about the report that Prince Bismarck has rejected the resolution of conscience passed by the house upon the death of Lasker, there is no special street talk here. Mr. Bismarck's action is regarded as a political move, and it is believed that the resolution has not been rescinded.

The secretary of state has received a dispatch from Minister Sargant, at Berlin, which says the Lasker resolutions have not been returned through him, and that he has no positive information on the subject. He expresses the belief, however, that the resolutions have been returned through other channels.

Mr. Bismarck, the German minister here, has not yet received any communication from his government touching the matter. While declining to express any opinion as to whether the resolutions have or have not been returned, he is confident that this government in forwarding them, no attempt will be conveyed to this government if they are returned.

Tom Chittre said to a correspondent: "I hope it is not true that Bismarck has returned the Lasker resolution. It would be an unparalleled outrage. No unfriendliness to Germany was intended. The American congress adopted a resolution of conscience at the death of Lasker, and it was presented to the government of Austria without protest. A resolution of regret over the death of Gambetta was agreed to. Conspicuous advocates of liberty have been the object of praise while living and regret when dead by the congress of this country. If Bismarck has returned the resolution to this country he ought to be rebuked, that is all."

Mr. Chittre denies that he alone voted for the Lasker resolution. "Why?" said he. "Where were a dozen fellows who voted for it, and I can prove it."

Chicago's Opinion. CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—A press reporter called on several of our German-American citizens to ascertain their views on the recent report of action of Bismarck in returning the Lasker resolutions to the house of representatives.

Dr. F. W. Eumann said: "I consider it a terrible insult to the American people, and it is so regarded by all Germans with whom I have talked. America ought to retaliate, and not pocket the affront. I think the only way to meet the situation is to send a message to the German government, and I can prove it."

E. S. Dreyer said: "It is a great surprise to me, and I will frankly say that I think it is a great outrage. I never expected that Bismarck would deliberately insult the American people, and I can scarcely credit his reported action—in fact, I shall want official confirmation before I am thoroughly convinced. It makes me tremble with rage when I read about the matter. Of course, our government should and must do something. We haven't heard the last of the matter."

Mr. Edward Jussen said Bismarck's action was entirely uncalled for and advocated immediate steps to rectify the result. The States Zeitung has a very vigorous editorial denouncing Bismarck and declaring that the motive of the chancellor has been petty malice against a Jewish lawyer and politician, and that the American congress is a disgrace to the German standing squarely by their adopted country."

Shooting Affray. CINCINNATI, Feb. 18.—A very serious shooting affray occurred at No. 73 Everett street, the home of Valentine Allbrant, a tailor. Louis Holman, the owner of the house, quarrelled with Allbrant. The trouble ended in Allbrant drawing a revolver and shooting Holman four times in the hip and side. Holman was married, and it is stated that the cause of the quarrel was his assertion that Allbrant was too familiar with his wife. The place was a boarding-house, which was kept by Holman, who is an insurance agent. Immediately after the shooting Allbrant gave himself up. Some days ago, it appears, Allbrant had a quarrel with Holman, and was bound over to keep the peace. He states that Holman came into his room and threatened to kill him; thereupon he drew his pistol, a .22-calibre English-bell dog, and shot at him four times. Only two of the bullets struck him, but at this time it is thought Holman cannot recover.

—Crystal Temple of Honor will give a social and a dance at Apollo hall on Friday evening February 22d. Tickets will be 50 cents only. The Apollo quadrille band will furnish the music.

—Those friends who desire to view the remains of the late Mrs. G. Veeder, are requested to call at the house, corner of Ann and Caroline streets, between the hours of ten and one o'clock to-morrow. The coffin will be closed thereafter.

—Prof. Henry suggests that in case the winter's accumulation of silt is not removed from the city bridges, there is danger of the "dry rot" damaging the bridge timbers. The suggestion is respectfully referred to authorities in power to act.

—Remember that the last party given by the ladies' aid society of Christ church before last, will take place this evening in Apollo hall. The ladies have arranged to have a few useful and valuable articles on sale at this social party. Everybody is invited to attend.

—Telegraphic advice state that a terrible snow storm is now prevailing in Northern Iowa, Minnesota and Dakota, that all trains going west from St. Paul and Winona have been abandoned on account of the snow blockade, and that the storm is the worst that has been experienced in years.

—President William B. Strong, of the Atchison, Poplar & Santa Fe railway, paid a brief visit to this city last evening. He was a guest of the Myers home. He came to consult Mr. Clinton Dabolt, secretary of the state agricultural society, relating to a bequest of some cemetery ground by his brother, the late Dr. H. P. Strong, to the city of Beloit. President Strong is enjoying a fair degree of health, and is much better than when he was here one year ago. He went to Chicago this morning.

—The social entertainment given by the ladies of Trinity church at the residence of Mrs. Harriet B. McKee, South Main street, last evening was a most successful affair, a large number of people being in attendance, and were made perfectly at home. All of the handsome articles which had been prepared by the ladies to be sold for the benefit of the parish, were disposed of at good profit margins. Good music was in attendance, and an excellent lunch was served, and all in attendance were pleased at being present on so happy and joyous occasion.

—Some people are never satisfied. Among this class is an element that can tell you more about the weather twenty-four hours ahead than the oldest resident over thought of knowing. Yesterday: "Our sleighing would all be gone by to-morrow." This morning: "The gentle spring was close at hand; and straw hats and linen dusters would be in demand before the first of March." We were never very successful at weather predictions; but we will venture the assertion, that if the present storm continues, our friends will have the pleasure of farming with a snow shovel for at least the balance of the week.

—The blizzard which struck this city a few minutes before one o'clock to-day, was of considerable force and served to drive people under shelter. At a quarter of two o'clock, standing on the corners of Main and East Milwaukee streets, but four teams could be seen in the four directions. One was hitched in front of W. H. Asher's furniture store, on West Milwaukee street; one in front of Collins & Wray's carpenter shop on North Main street; one in front of the American house on East Milwaukee street, and a single horse and cart was noticed at the same time making its way up South Main street towards the business center. At this time not a half dozen people could be seen on all the streets.

—The Beloit Free Press: "Two drunken rascals drove up from Janesville Sunday with a good team of horses from Carter's stable, in that city, and in running the horses through the streets, one animal (four legged) was so badly out upon one of its feet as to nearly cause its ruin. Marshall North took the team in charge, and the wounded beast was cared for by Veterinary Surgeon Kniz. The horses were going at such a speed that many thought they were running away. To-day a man connected with Carter's stable came down to take the horse home, but the wind is so bad that it is doubtful if he can do so. The young man put up a watch chain in order to get home to-morrow.

—Madison is having a terrible time just now with the fire department. On Saturday night a fire broke out in one of the manufacturing establishments, and the Democrat thus notes the operations: "It was not a great while before several streams of water—some from city hydrants, the others from the steam fire engines—were at hand, but unfortunately these did not seem to be properly handled or properly directed. Had two or three streams been taken inside the building and properly applied, good results would no doubt have followed—at least this was the opinion of the old and experienced firemen. The streams were scattered all over the neighborhood. One was taken inside after a while, but those handling it fell to a rank discussion, and knew not what they were doing. Their streams flowed for fifteen or twenty minutes without doing a particle of good. In a word, the management was bad; in fact there appeared to be no management."

—There appeared in the columns of the Gazette of the 14th inst, an article on "Fine Jerseys" containing an extract from a letter by Mr. N. N. Palmer, of Evergreen farm, near Broadhead. Among other things pertaining to the celebrated Jersey cow "Bombay" was stated the fact that her butter making qualities showed a record of 89 pounds 11 ounces in three days. Mr. Palmer is a successful stock grower and a great admirer of fine cattle, but he writes us to-day that the three day record, above referred to, is a little strong, even for a thoroughbred Jersey. The amount of butter is all right but the time should have been thirty one days. From what we know of Mr. Palmer and his reputation for blooded horned stock, we do not hesitate to say that the first cow that can successfully furnish material for thirty pounds of butter a day and keep it up for three days, will be found in his herd, which is very choice.

THE SHOPIERE FIRE.

The Moseley Shops Again Destroyed.

Loss Over $4,000—Insured for $2,500.

From our Regular Correspondent.

STROZEM, Feb. 19th, 1884.

Last evening about 7:30 o'clock our village was awakened by an alarm of fire, which proved to be Moseley's wagon and blacksmith shops. The fire was first discovered in the paint shop, which is on stairs and in the end next to the street. The wind was blowing very hard and it was impossible to do anything except to save the machinery and stock which was below, most of which was saved. The engine and boiler will probably be a total loss. This is the second time these shops have been destroyed by fire. February first, last year, they were entirely destroyed, and were replaced again within a very short time by the present building, which was a two-story building 24x70 feet with an engine room 18x30 on the south side. Mr. Moseley had an insurance of $2,500 in the company represented by P. Johnson, of Beloit. The whole establishment was valued at $4,000. The stock on hand, which consisted of material for one hundred and fifty new wagons, also, a lot of wagon stock, &c., is estimated at $1,000. There were eight regular men employed, and the weekly pay roll was about $85. Mr. Moseley was on his way home from Janesville at the time of the fire, and arrived in time to see the last of it burn up. It is his intention to rebuild as soon as lumber can be procured. It is only a few days ago that his father was buried, and now his shops are burned. Surely if any one deserves sympathy it is E. J. Moseley, for it one cyclone and two fires within four years will not discourage a person, we don't know what will. It was very fortunate that it was a damp time or it would have been very hard to save the house, as the wind blew from the south. An old building used as a feedgrinding room was saved.

Boxes.

Among the useful and ornamental articles that please the eye and supply the want of every-day existence, perhaps none are appreciated less, or used more, than the one indicated by the headline of this office; from the small, round, pasteboard representative, delicately labeled and filled with the fine white complexioned paper, to the huge wooden organ case, growing under its load of undeveloped harmony, enough might be written to weary the patience of the average reader. Our remarks in this plain, ordinary looking case, used as the depository of the daily paper, and attached to a post in front of the house, is known for short as the "paper box."

This class of boxes are supposed to be possessed by every well regulated family, although occasionally people have been known to keep house for an indefinite period without one. This class of people, as a rule, are clever, happy, free-hearted people, who labor under the pleasing delusion that a daily paper is a tame affair and like a white dove, will surely perch on their front door step every evening about dusk. As a rule the delusion proves a reality, and they have but to open the door and take in the sheet, but when the night is dark and stormy a shelter should be provided. Put up your paper boxes, and if the carrier boys of the Gazette cannot be induced to patronize them, we will box up the whole party and send them to Waukesha for treatment.

A Fair Offer.

The Voltaire Bell Co. of Marshall, Mich., offer to send Dr. Dye's Celebrated Voltaic belt and electric appliances on trial, for thirty days, to men, old and young, afflicted with nervous debility, lost vitality, and many other diseases. See advertisement in this paper.

Past Off Your Wink.

We started home last night full of good resolutions and feeling well satisfied with having gone through the first working day of the week, with an unruffled temper and a serene mind. As we waded along in the slush it occurred to us that a sidewalk over in our ward, might probably be unattended by the aid of a shovel and our serenity of mind was somewhat clouded with the knowledge of the fact that the sidewalk ordinance had been sadly neglected all winter. Conviction speedily took possession, and a determination to reform as speedily followed. We struck a nice, smooth piece of flagging which stretched out ahead for a block free from snow and ice. Navigation became pleasant and we were making excellent time to put in practice our new formed resolutions, when without warning we quickly, but suddenly set down hard enough to see a star or two that sparkled for a moment. Our dignity was gone and also our hat, slowly collecting the former and gathering the latter out of the gutter, we anxiously glanced around for an audience. Small but very silent and evidently appreciating our catastrophe, stood our friend Hayner, of insurance notoriety, smiling out upon us from his office window.

Walking in a little ruffled in feeling we said, "well, why don't you laugh?" "Laugh," he said "why shouldn't I, you are the eleventh man who has dropped in here to rest to-day, after trying our clean side-walk, and half of them have gone away happy with an accident policy; can we have the pleasure of writing one for you?"

We took five thousand, and went home fully convinced that business and pleasure can sometimes be profitably combined in the strict observance of a city ordinance.
